

I spoke with the architect and he noted that as this is actually only a new roof, which by design may provide an attic ie: a "room" within.. this is not for a "second floor addition" He has presented on the plans all of the items requested at the end of the Feb 1st meeting. Ive marked them with yellow post notes to detail the requested items. Below I've drawn an imagined attic space within the rafter system.. You may consider this your "second floor plan"
